

THE HERALD.

J. P. BARRETT, Editor.
CICERO T. SUTTON, Associate Editor.
WEDNESDAY, MAY 18, 1881.

The Western Kentucky Press Association meets in Hopkinsville to-day. The session promises to be one of great interest and profit.

Last Thursday was the warmest day of the season so far. Many cases of death from stroke are reported from various places in the North.

MR. JAMES W. HOWARD, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of McLean county, died at his home on Tuesday, the 10th inst.

CALDWELL went to church last Sunday and was "mashed" on one of Hopkinsville's prettiest young ladies—South Kentucky.

Did they scrape him off?
A COAL-OIL can exploded in the store of Morgan & Bro., at Grayson Springs, last Thursday, fatally injuring two, if not three, men. The store, together with its contents, was a total loss.

The Jews of the Old World are just now receiving very harsh treatment, especially in Russia and Germany. Hundreds have been killed and the work of murdering them goes on daily.

A MAN living near Stephentown, Breckinridge county, and who has been blind for seventeen years, went to the "Pink Cottage" in order to try the "faith cure." He confidently expects to see his friends on his return.

In these days when we are forced to make every edge cut it behooves all men and farmers, especially to secure the best market price for any and every thing they produce. In order to carry out this sentiment fully you will ship your tobacco to the People's Tobacco Warehouse, Louisville, Ky.

STANLEY MATTHEWS was confirmed as Justice of the Supreme Court last Thursday. His garments are rather sweet scented from his connection with the Louisiana frauds in the election of 1876. It is a disgrace to justice, whose representative Matthews ought to be, that he should be permitted to wear the judicial ermine in the highest court on our land.

R. S. CHEVINS, G. W. C. Grand Lodge I. O. G. T., lectured here last Sunday night. He came unheralded—his appointment by mistake or neglect not having been made public. He had a fair audience notwithstanding, and those who heard him say his lecture was excellent. We trust he will come again and not keep his next appointment a secret.

WE learn from the Madisonville Times that Miles Orton was arrested there for failure to take out license for his concert. The authorities demanded $40, which Mr. Orton could not see. Proceedings were instituted and he was discharged. The Times speaks of Orton as a "quiet, gentlemanly fellow."

THE grave of Abraham Lincoln's mother is in Spencer county, Ind., and until quite recently was totally unmarked. Mr. Clem Studebaker, of the South Bend wagon works, found out where the grave was situated and procured a marble slab, and had it placed over the grave. Many costly monuments have been erected over less worthy graves at the public expense.

CAPT. SAM M. GAINES, for several years editor of the Hopkinsville News Era, has resigned his position on that paper in order to make a more thorough canvass for the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals, for which he is an aspirant. Capt. Gaines was one of the best writers of the Kentucky press, and we regret to lose him from the fraternity. He is going to make a red-hot canvass, and the man who beats him must get his feet up fast.

MISS IDA LYON, grand-daughter of Rev. David Whittingham, formerly of this county, was out riding last week when the horse she was driving became frightened and ran away, throwing her out in front of the buggy, her feet catching in between the single tree and front axle of the buggy, while her face and head dangled at the horse's heels. The beast then began to kick and plunge, and the young girl's head and face were horribly lacerated. The Times says that her recovery is very doubtful. She lives at Madisonville.

THE Brady Star-route gang are using every means to secure the appointment of the infamous Wm. E. Chandler to the position of Solicitor General. They think that with Chandler to curb the reforming tendencies of Attorney General, MacVeagh, they can escape the punishment which, in any other event, would be meted out to them. President Garfield will surely have more regard for every sense of outraged justice than to take any step that will lead to a protection of the thieves. If Chandler receives the appointment we shall immediately lose all respect for the administration.

WHEN the time for the vote on the confirmation of Judge Robertson comes up in the Senate, we hope to see every Democrat vote for his confirmation. It is a question of no moment to the Democrats of the country as to who gets the federal offices, therefore all that we can expect is to get up a wrangle in the ranks of the Republican party and especially in New York. This, as we have said before, will almost certainly follow Judge Robertson's confirmation, as Conkling will not fail to resent it to the bitter end. Judge Robertson is as honest and as capable as any man Conkling can produce and no Democratic Senator can raise an objection to him on any such score, so we do not see why they may not vote for him.

BOWLING GREEN is to have a fifteen hundred-dollar fountain.

MRS. PRESIDENT GARFIELD has been quite ill with bilious intermittent fever. She is now recovering.

AN order for 25,000 shares of Louisville & Nashville railroad stock was received in New York last week.

THE public debt has been reduced $9,000,000,000 during the month of April.—Hopkinsville Republican.

AREN'T you a little over enthusiastic?

WE learn from the News that the wife of Ed Ryan, of Breckinridge county, was drowned in a small pool of water while suffering from an attack of vertigo.

"THE Drunkard and his Master," as told in rhyme by R. Campbell on our first page, is "an over true tale" and as good a temperance lecture as Bain or Gough could make. Read it.

ALLEN county is having a harder time with her railroad debt than Muhlenburg. All her magistrates were arrested and taken to Louisville to appear before the U. S. Court for refusing to levy a tax.

CROWN PRINCE RUDOLPH, of Austria, and Princess Stephanie, of Belgium, were married in Vienna last week. This is all we have to say about it except a word to the bride. The bride's train was fifteen feet long.

MR. WILLIAM BARNES, of Breckinridge county, committed suicide last week by taking morphine. He was a thriving farmer and unmarried. No cause could be assigned for the rash act, save that he was tired of life.

FROM this issue our readers will learn that Judge Van B. Rains and Captain Adam Litter have both withdrawn from the Legislative canvass. This leaves but one Democratic candidate before the people, viz: Jesse S. Williams.

SOME of our Kentucky editors recommend a subscription to their papers as a remedy for lame back. The ladies formerly used them for that purpose but the remedy is no longer in favor. In other words, bustles have gone out of fashion.

IT will soon be in order for the local press of the State to set the word "hot" at the head of their local column. Soda water men should be charged double price for a notice following such an announcement of the state of the weather.

THE star called Mahone, which has been a prominent object in the political heavens for some time, is now very greatly on the wane and will soon be lost in the depths of Senatorial space. What at first appeared to be a star of the first magnitude has dwindled down to a mere nothing.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD says that he is one-third of the government of the United States and that Conkling is but one-seventh-sixth part of another third, and that, therefore, he is not at all any more regard for the position he occupies.

MILES ORTON's circus exhibited at Cloverport last Tuesday, May 17. Mr. Orton has had a great deal of bad luck since he left this place, but the papers all say that he gives a good show wherever he goes. Mr. Orton is a gentleman and is worthy of the support that his show merits.

WE have arranged with an able man to write a series of articles upon the subject of "agricultural chemistry." The first one appears in this issue. They will, or at least ought to, interest farmers, for they give such information, if heeded, as will enable the farmer to produce more with less worry and labor. Farmers, read them carefully.

THE Standford Hotel, Louisville, Ky., is conceded by all who visit it to be the best in accommodations, and the politeness and attention of its clerks, waiters, porters and other persons connected with it, of any hotel in the State. The situation is very convenient, and, on the whole, it is the best place at which to stop that you can find in the city.

WE regret to see that one of our Hopkinsville exchanges does not stick strictly up to the resolutions of the Madisonville Press Convention.—Henderson Reporter.

You needn't be surprised at that. It is the same paper, no doubt, whose publisher sends out agents to do a cut-throat business and try to get a little printing by misrepresenting other offices and ignoring all professional courtesies and amenities.—Madisonville Times.

At the very last minute yesterday came the news that Senators Conkling and Platt, of New York, have resigned their seats in the Senate on account of the President's refusal to withdraw the nomination of Robertson and others for New York offices. This was unexpected and will no doubt create a lively commotion in some way or other. It is thought that Conkling will be re-elected by way of approval of his course in opposing the President.

FOR weeks past the papers of the entire State have been noticing the mighty revivals which have been progressing in the eastern part of the State under the ministry of Rev. Geo. O. Barnes, and of the wonderful cures effected by the agency of faith and prayer at the "Pink Cottage" in Lincoln county. Many have scoffed at the idea while others have stoutly defended Mr. Barnes and the Faith Cure. For our part we will candidly confess that we do not understand it, but would refer you to the brilliant letter from JESSE ELIOT which appears on our first page. In it he tells, in his own happy style, all that is known about Barnes and his agency, and about the "Pink Cottage." Don't pass it by, thinking that it will be uninteresting, for JESSE ELIOT never writes anything of that kind, and in this article he has fairly excelled even himself.

"W. C. C." gives us a paper on "Free Schools and Taxation" in this issue. He tackles "Vindex" a little.

NANCY JANE JONES furnishes our readers this week with an account of a recent visit to "Lansville" and tells all about the sights she saw.

THE questions from "A Voter" to Legislative aspirants on the first page of this issue are pointed, and are such queries as a large number of the people would like to have answered.

THE Messenger & Economist, speaking of what we said in regard to the establishment of a telephone line between this place and Owensboro, says: "The suggestions of the Herald are good. If the people of Hartford are anxious for telephone connections with Owensboro, surely our people should meet them more than half way, and assist in building the line. It is to Owensboro that the advantages of such a line will accrue, and four business men fail to establish it they will stand in their own light. Let us be up and doing. Owensboro is now on the high tide of prosperity, and it is only by building up and fostering such enterprises that she can expect to maintain her position among the rising cities of the West. Let a line be constructed to Hartford, Calhoun, and, in fact, to every town in the Green river region. It will cost north thousands of dollars to the business interest of Owensboro every year. Who will start the paper?"

THE Democratic Executive Committee for Ohio county met last Thursday, and after advising with leading Democrats, concluded to call the Democratic county convention to meet in Hartford on the same day the Senatorial convention was called, viz: Monday, June 6, 1881. The voting precincts are requested to hold meetings at their respective voting places on Saturday evening, June 4, 1881, at 8 o'clock, to select delegates to the Senatorial and Legislative conventions. It was a sensible move to have both conventions held at once. It saves time and insures a larger turnout. It is now the duty of the Democrats of the county to turn out at the appointed time en masse, select the ablest, best, most available men for the positions. If they fail to do this their work will be futile, for it will take a good team to beat Pool and Shanks. Mark what we say and see if it is not true. Another Democratic defeat, another Republican victory or so, will transfer this county to the Republicans. A Republican defeat in this county this year insures a full Democratic triumph in 1882, and a Republican success makes Democratic success next year very uncertain. Besides, beyond and above this, we want men tried and true—unserving men—to legislate for the best interests of the people. Come out, Democrats, and select the very best men, and then see that they are elected.

Call for a Democratic Convention.

MORGANTOWN, Ky., May 7, 1881. The Democratic party of the Eighth Senatorial District of Kentucky, composed of the counties of Ohio, Muhlenberg and Butler, are hereby called to meet in convention at Hartford, Ohio county, Monday, the 6th day of June, 1881, to select delegates to the Senate at the ensuing August election.

JEROME T. MOORE, Chairman 8th Senatorial Dist.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Ohio county, it was

Resolved, That meetings of the Democratic voters of Ohio county be held at each voting precinct on Saturday, the 4th day of June, at 3 o'clock, p. m., and that delegates be sent to the Senatorial Convention, which has been called to meet at Hartford on Monday, the 6th day of June, 1881.

Resolved, Further, that a County Convention be called to meet at Hartford on the 10th day of June, at the same day of the Senatorial Convention, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives, and that the precincts, at the meetings called to select delegates to the Senatorial Convention, also appoint delegates to the County Convention.

Three Cents a Mile.

At a meeting of the Railroad Commissioners of Kentucky recently held in Lexington a circular letter urging the adoption of a three-cent rate of travel was made out to all the railroad officials of the State. That is not a particle of doubt but that the rate will be adopted some time or other and if it is to be adopted at all, the sooner it is done the better for all concerned.

The following is a copy of the letter recommending the reduction:

"Your attention is again called to the reduction of your passenger rates to a maximum rate of three cents per mile. Some of the roads in Kentucky have adopted this maximum, and while a portion of the people are getting the benefit of a three-cent rate, others are deprived of it. We trust that you will accede to this urgent request of the Railroad Commission and relieve them of advising the enforcement of a three-cent rate by act of the Legislature, as we shall feel constrained to do in case you refuse to comply with our recommendation."

By order of the Board of State Railroad Commissioners of Kentucky.

Tackling the Wrong Man.

Measles rages in Three Forks vicinity.—Bowling Green Democrat.

Tackle him, "Tip."—Hartford Herald.

If "Tip" is not better acquainted with the rules of correct English than the Hartford Herald man appears to be, he would do well to be careful before he "tackles" anyone on that "measles" business. Our esteemed contemporaries are respectfully referred to Butler's Grammar, page 25, where they will find these words: "Some nouns in the singular number have a plural form, as, measles, measles, etc." As to the Herald man we say "Tackle him, Tip."—Bowling Green Democrat.

The writer of the foregoing paragraph must be a regular Bat(t) for blindness, or he would not have mistaken the meaning of our "Tackle him, Tip." Our real aim was not to question the propriety of the expression, for we think it is beyond question. It was only to call the attention of a certain young editor who dares assert that measles is plural. Rest assured if we thought an error existed in the sentence we would not have called on another to "tackle" it, but would have pitched in ourself.

Hopkinsville has just organized an immigration society "for the purpose of directing immigration to Southern Kentucky, and especially to Christian county." Such societies should be organized in every county in the State, and these should in turn organize district societies and thus extend and systematize the work over the whole State. We need a greatly increased population of skilled farmers and mechanics of all kinds, and the only way to get them is to hold up the advantages that Kentucky possesses over the regions of the bleak northwest, to which the tide of immigration is now principally directed. Thousands of thrifty and industrious English, Irish and Germans are being annually misled by the glittering statements of the rapacious land and railroad agents of the North, when we might have them come to Kentucky by using the same means which we could honestly do. In no other place is remuneration so certain to follow well-directed labor as it is in Kentucky. In no other country do failures in the crops occur so rarely as in Kentucky, and in no other place can such a diversity of crops be produced or such a variety of soils be found. The mountain-loving Swiss is at home in some portions of the State, while the inhabitants of Italy and the south of France find in others a veritable paradise. We have all the natural advantages of soil, climate, water-courses, minerals, and everything else that goes to make up all that nature can do for any people, and the only thing that we lack is the push, the enterprise—in other words the get-up-and-go to let the people of the outside world know who and what we are and what we can and will do for those who come here.

Immigration Talk.

Editor Herald:

Mr. C. V. Hoover, son of James C. Hoover, of this neighborhood, happened to quite a serious accident on last Sunday evening. He was coming from church at Clear Run, in company with Mr. Dan Paris, and were caught in a storm on their way and were obliged to take shelter under a shed of P. B. Moreland's stable and the severe wind and stable was unroofed, and one of the timbers struck Mr. Hoover in the shoulder with such force as to completely paralyze him physically, but the understanding is slightly improved. No bones broken. Mr. Paris fortunately escaped uninjured.

DEAR SIR:—As we were traveling in your county trying to get employment in the circus, or work, we were suddenly arrested on suspicion of having stolen a watch. We were carefully searched three times each, and neither watch or money was found about us and the proof was by an old woman about three hundred yards away, and that she would not swear that we were the men she saw. We are perfectly innocent of the charge. We know nothing about the watch. We were not allowed to be kept from home, parents, kindred and liberty so long and our widowed mothers need our help and are dependent on us for support. We were not allowed to speak and we are hedged in among strangers and are sad and desolate. Let any one take the case to himself and let him know how he would feel in such a land, with no one to speak one word of help or sympathy, or tell the tale of death.

Mr. A. T. Nall, representing the drug firm of Messrs. Thomas & Kimbley, has just returned from a tour through Daviess county, where he met with considerable success in the sale of their famous medicines.

Wm. Phillips, who has been in Louisville for a week or ten days past, returned home last week. He had his broken arm examined while in the city, but nothing more could be done for it than had been done by our own physicians.

Mr. C. C. Noble, traveling correspondent of the Paducah Daily Enterprise, was in town a day or two this week, the guest of the Hartford House. We had the pleasure of a call from him while here and found him to be quite a pleasant gentleman.

Prof. W. M. Metcalfe, of Hopkinsville, spent a day or two in town last week in the interest of the Homestead Tobacco Grower, for which he is the sole agent for the State. He appointed Mr. G. B. Williams as the agent for the Tobacco Grower in this place.

Messrs. C. W. Wilhoite, of the firm of R. McJohnston & Co., wholesale grocers, and W. H. Courtney, of the firm of Courtney & Co., wholesale druggists, Owensboro, were in town Friday. They took in the entertainment at Hon. H. D. McHenry's Friday night, given by the Young Ladies' Club.

—Keg beer, at R. C. Hardwick's.
—Pure Hines, Wilson, Monarch and Bourbon whiskeys, at R. C. Hardwick's.
—Clients, witnesses and jurors, should not forget that next Monday is Circuit Court.

—Buy you, cheese, sausage, crackers, cakes and cider during court at the Red Front.
—It is a fact that Kendall's Spavin Cure is all it is advertised to be. See their advertisement.

—Will pay the highest prices for bacon, lard and all kinds of country produce. RED FRONT.

—Rev. J. S. McDaniel filled his regular appointment at this place last Sunday. The audience, though not large, was very attentive and appreciative.

—Dr. Casper recommends Kendall's Spavin Cure in the highest terms, and thousands of eminent physicians do the same. See advertisement.

—Frank O. Herring, Esq., of the Champion Safe Works 251 and 253 Broadway, New York, reports the use of St. Jacobs Oil for a stiffness and soreness of the shoulder, with most pleasant and efficacious effects.—Louisville Home and Farm.

—Louis Guenther has opened an ice cream saloon at his bakery, where he is prepared to furnish ice cream and cakes at all times during the summer season. Give him a call.

—Rev. E. H. Madrox will hold religious services on the street in front of the postoffice at 3 o'clock p. m., next Sunday, May 23. Every person is earnestly and respectfully invited to attend.

—Dyspepsia and indigestion are cured by using Ball's Digestive Salt at the table instead of ordinary table salt. 25 cents will get a package or bottle from your druggist or grocer. See advertisement. 18-19

—John M. Williams has bought the right of Todd county for the Harris & Smith non-explosive self-extinguishing lamp. This is one of the best inventions of the age and sells quite rapidly and gives entire satisfaction.

—Rome is partly in ruins; Jerusalem entirely so, and so is the suit of clothes which you have worn all the past winter. Would it not be advisable to get for yourself or your son a new spring suit from the best house in Louisville, J. Winter & Co., corner of Third and Market streets, Louisville, Ky.?

—Mrs. J. E. Pendleton, S. L. Berry, J. T. Miller and Messrs. S. Wayne Griffin and Henry Small, left Monday morning for Hines Mills on a fishing tour. They built a boat and hauled the same to Hines Mills, where they launched it. They will start down stream fishing all the way down. We hope they will have a pleasant trip.

—There is now a substance which is both professionally and popularly endorsed and concerning which, Mr. J. B. Fenschweiler, Butteville, Oregon, writes: I have often read of the many cures effected by St. Jacobs Oil, and was persuaded to try the remedy myself. I was a sufferer from rheumatism and experienced great pains, my leg being so swollen that I could not move it. I procured St. Jacobs Oil, used it freely and was cured.—Freeport (Me.) Bulletin.

—Zionsville, Ind., Nov. 3, 1881.—Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co.—Gents: I have your valuable treatise on the horse and his diseases and your Kendall's Spavin Cure. My horses had the epizootic, one of them could not swallow for two days. I applied your Kendall's Spavin Cure twice to her throat and it gave almost instant relief. I think I could sell 1,000 of your books; please give prices to agents. Yours truly, PETER BOWEN.

—Capt. Wm. Ashley, of Jamesport, Mo., sole agent of the self-extinguishing, non-explosive safety lamp, for the State of Kentucky, called on us last week. Capt. Ashley sold the right of this county sometime ago, and every lamp sold and delivered so far as we have been able to learn, gives entire satisfaction. We have ordered a set for our office. He has a large number of counties yet unsold. Persons wishing to purchase territory or county rights, address Capt. Wm. Ashley, agent, Hartford, Ky. 16-17

—Garrettsburg, April 4, 1881.—I have used the Homestead Tobacco Grower for two years on the thin points of my tobacco shifts and have increased the yield therefrom fifty to one hundred per cent, and the tobacco grown with it brought 3 cents per pound more than where I did not use it. I shall use it this season on all land that produces more than one thousand pounds per acre. My tobacco lots have been cleared for over forty years and on clover land.

Very respectfully, W. E. EMMY.

—It is not always well to pin your faith too strongly to metaphors. They are too much like fireflies, too little like lamps. Jupiter burns on and ever, with a steady blaze, while the comets come and go, and are lost to sight and memory. There is, however, one meteor going forth on a grand and triumphant mission; not destined to be lost, but to leave a trail behind it, which will be a thing of personal knowledge and observation among coming generations. Then call on the agent, and he will exhibit to your vision this wonderful meteor in the shape of Crooke's "Never Fail." For sale by Thomas & Kimbley and Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggists, Hartford, Ky.

—Call at Thomas & Kimbley's and buy one of those "Universal" cigars.

—For the cheapest and best furniture in town go to Mrs. L. H. Eidsen's.

—The closing examination of Hartford College will begin Monday, June 6, 1881.

—The best and cheapest groceries of all kinds can be found at Mrs. L. H. Eidsen's, next door to Griffin's drug store.

—Wanted—Every body attending Circuit Court to call at the Red Front and see the big bargains in groceries, produce, provisions, &c.

—The docket of the coming session of Circuit Court was not received in time to get in this issue. We regret this but will have it in next week.

—The reason R. P. Rowe sells more sewing machines than any other firm in the county is because he sells the best machine for the least money.

—When you come to Circuit Court next week and want to know the correct time, call at Thomas & Kimbley's and purchase one of those cheap clocks.

—Williams Bros. wish to have every body who attends Circuit Court to call and see their immense stock of cheap groceries. For good quality and cheapness they are unsurpassed in Hartford.

—Whatever else you may forget, do not forget to neglect to call on R. P. Rowe when you come to Circuit Court. He will sell you more goods for a little money than you can get anywhere else.

—We have much pleasure in recommending Therman's eye ointment, as an absolute cure for Malaria. The manufacturer's name alone is a guarantee of its merit. It sells at 25 cents per box. For particulars see Advt.

—When you come to Circuit Court next week don't forget to call at Mrs. L. H. Eidsen's for anything you may want in the way of groceries, furniture, &c. Everything sold cheap as dirt for cash.

—The time-table on the P. & E. railroad has been changed, the change taking effect Monday, the 19th inst. From that date train No. 1 from Louisville arrives at Beaver Dam at 11:00 a. m., and train No. 2 from Paducah at 2:50 p. m.

—Edgar T. Page, Esq., Druggist, writes us from Chicago Falls, that Mr. Albert Guenther, under Wilds Hotel has used that remarkable remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, for a severe case of rheumatism and it cured him, as if by magic. He also used it with great success among his friends, in cases of sprains, sores, and it cures every ailment.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

—The third entertainment given by the Young Ladies Club was held at the residence of Hon. H. D. McHenry on last Friday evening, May 13th. At an early hour the guests assembled in the spacious rooms set apart for them and gave way to the flow of conversation and the social gaiety which ran riot in every place. The festivities continued until a late hour, when all left for their respective homes. Every one who was present speaks in the most glowing terms of the success of the entertainment, and regrets that it is to be the last of the kind, for a time at least.

"I Don't Want Any Plaster"

said a sick man to a druggist, "can't you give me something to cure me?" His symptoms were a lame back and disordered urines and were a sure indication of kidney disease. The druggist told him to use Kidney-Wort and in a short time it effected a complete cure. Have you these symptoms? Then get a box or bottle of Kidney-Wort and you are cured. It is the cure; safe and sure.—Knoxville Republican.

Judge Rains Declines.

I take this method of announcing to the voters of Ohio county that I have, in obedience to the force of circumstances which surround me, declined to make the race for the Legislature. After having yielded to the solicitation of my friends and consented to make the race I regret now that I am forced to decline, but my business affairs have assumed a shape that will demand my entire attention, rendering it impossible for me to make anything like a thorough canvass.

To those who solicited me to make the race and offered me their support I return my sincere thanks.

Editor Herald:

On last Thursday night a most shocking and heart-rending scene occurred at Grayson Springs station. A young man and a young woman were in a stagecoach, and the young man struck a match near the coal oil barrel. The oil caught fire and as there was only one door to the house the three men were enveloped in flames. They finally got out, but all were so badly burned that they died.

D. B. Ferguson and Miss Mattie Redford were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony at the residence of the bride's father, Russell Renfrow. Dave is an enterprising business man. Mattie is a lady of beauty and refinement, loved by all who know her. May all their troubles be little ones.

A party consisting of Misses Minnie and Katie Keene, Jennie Askins and Annie Mitchell, and Messrs. John Ragland, Ed. Quisenberry, Elmer McNeill, James Moorman, Clinton Hedley, M. Sharp, J. Withers, W. Keene visited the dark hollow of which your correspondent, "Annie," wrote something since. Like Annie, we fell very much in love with the beautiful scenery, but unlike her we did not lack for protection from bugs, snakes and frogs—as Mr. Ed. Quisenberry, who is known as the most expert frog catcher in the country, was in the company. We shall, however, have to look to some other source for protection, as Mr. Ed. has gone.

I gratefully acknowledge a serenade by the Fordville band on the night of the 10th inst. I should like to acknowledge them often, but some of the boys started the next morning for Colorado.

As I have a prospect for a good wheat and oats crop as we have ever had in this vicinity and have not heard of any bugs on the tobacco plants.

Messrs. Rice & Gates, of Owensboro, Ky., parties who purchased a two-thirds interest in the Daniel, Paxton & Co. distillery, have gone to work with a vim. They have completed a new bonded warehouse that will hold one thousand barrels of whiskey and will commence running about the 25th inst.

A. Jones and A. Kahn returned from Frankfort to-day. They have been up attending to some business connected with the assessment.

M. Stanly, proprietor of the Seelye mines is pushing his mines to their full capacity, having made a contract with the G. & B. R. N. Co. for all the coal he can put out during the summer. He is now working 35 miners and can give employment to 10 or 12 more good men.

We are preparing ourselves for a good hand-shaking to-morrow, as Judge Thos. Carson and Capt. Nat. Harris are coming—candidates you know. I hope they will make it plain which one of them we shall vote for.

Homestead Tobacco Grower.

This fertilizer will pay the farmer to use, especially if his land is worn or tired in the least. The farmer will get a better stand. It makes the tobacco ripen earlier and more uniform. It will increase your crop on poor land from one to five hundred per cent. It will do your ground a permanent good. More lasting than stable manure. It will only cost you $3.00 per 100, and 100 pounds is enough for one acre. Don't be afraid of it. No humping. Thousands of barrels used by the best farmers in Kentucky. Ask them. It can be had of G. B. Williams, Hartford; J. P. Barnard, Beaver Dam; V. M. Metcalfe, General Agent, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Death of Joseph P. Ross.

Mr. Ross was born near Shepherdsville, Bullitt county, Kentucky, July 10th, 1879. He was married in Nelson county, December 21, 1899, to Mary J. Walker, sister of Richard M. and Elias Walker the former living near Hartford and the latter living in Breckinridge near the Ohio county line. In 1890 Mr. Ross moved to the farm on which he died, in Ohio county. For the last eight or ten years he has been in bad health and it was evident that he was suffering from as many as two or three diseases, but within a short time before his death he remarked that his health was better than it had been for years. He died at his home one mile south of Pattierville, Monday night, May 2, 1881, in the 64th year of his age. On the evening of the 3rd his remains were interred by the side of his wife in the family graveyard on the farm. He leaves ten children, three sons and seven daughters. His oldest son, Wallace, is in charge of the farm; his second son, Charles, is a store-keeper near Pattierville on the Hartford and Hardinsburg road and his youngest son, Jesse, is now in Arkansas. Mr. Ross was a successful farmer and stock raiser, was prompt in all his business transactions, was a man that had little to do with public affairs and by his industry and economy leaves his children a good start in this world which, with the example of industry left them, will have no trouble in making this a success.

FORBES.

To Farmers.

Does farming pay will not be the subject of these papers; but our object is to stimulate the farmer to a higher conception of his profession and make him produce more with less worry—if not labor. The object of cultivating the soil is to raise a crop of plants, to meet the ever recurring wants of the human family. In order to cultivate with economy we must raise the best quality and largest possible quantity with the least possible expense without injury to the soil.

Before this can be done we must study the nature and character of plants, learn their composition as far as possible. They are not created by some mysterious power, nor by accident, but by fixed laws of nature, and out of matters already in existence. Circulation, like that in animal life, is always going on in vegetable life. They take up water containing food and other matters, and discharge from their roots or leaves, or deposit within their pores substances that are not required for their growth. It is of the greatest importance that the farmer should know the kind of food best suited for various kinds of vegetable growth, and how and where to obtain it and how to use it.

If we burn any vegetable substance it disappears except a small portion, which we call ashes. That part which burns away during combustion we call atmospheric matter, because it was obtained from the atmosphere; but that part obtained from the soil remains as earthy matter, or ashes.

We will now examine each of these different classes of matter and find out if possible of what they consist. This process we call "Agricultural Chemistry." We are aware that there are few farmers who have ever given this subject any special study and a difficult task of making such matters plain enough to be understood by them. The elements of such knowledge may and should be acquired by every person. Whether actually engaged in the cultivation of the soil or not. Every person is dependent on vegetable life, not only for food, but for every comfort of life. We will first examine the atmospheric part of plants, or that part which apparently is lost by combustion. This matter is not lost, but has been changed in form. It consists of one solid substance—carbon (or charcoal)—and three gasses—oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen. When wood is burned in a close vessel, excluded from the air, its carbon becomes charcoal. All plants contain this substance, it forming usually about one-half of their dry weight. The remainder of the atmospheric parts being the other three gasses already named. All plants contain about 95 per cent. of these three gasses, or as they are sometimes called, organic elements. How are they obtained and how used? Carbon, in the form of carbonic acid, is mainly taken into the plant through the leaves by absorption from the atmosphere. Hydrogen is supplied by water. Oxygen by carbonic acid and water. Nitrogen partly from the air, in form of gas, and partly through the roots from substances in the earth containing nitrogen in the form of ammonia.

We cannot in this short paper give all the information needed on this subject, but only intend to whet the appetite of the thinking mind for more light and make some practical suggestions and applications by and by.

Free Schools and Taxation.

The difference between our correspondent, Vindeux, and myself upon any of the points yet discussed in reference to the common school question, is too small to warrant much hope of a controversy between us. I readily concede the proposition that the present school fund of Kentucky is inadequate to the accomplishment of the object desired, the attainment of a fair English education. We want a bona fide fund sufficient to insure a five months' school taught each year by well educated and otherwise qualified teachers. I heartily endorse the proposition to augment the present school fund by setting apart the $200,000 war claim for that purpose, nor can I see any reasonable grounds for objecting to the proposition to tax spirituous and malt liquors for the noble purpose of education. Vindeux seems to have investigated the subject fully. The tax he proposes is very light and the source from which it would be more than wasted; and secondly, because the benefits derived therefrom accrue, as a rule, to the children of the very class from whom it was drawn, the tippler, and thereby turns a small amount of that worse than useless expenditure to the benefit of his children. If a much larger per cent. of the money expended for spirits could be turned in the same direction it would yield an untold amount of blessings instead of the long retinue of misery and crime so properly depicted by Vindeux. It is admitted, also, that money (properly used) is the specific tonic that imparts life, health and vigor to the whole system and is indispensable to putting the machinery in motion and keeping it moving. But I can not agree with Vindeux that any amount of money would prove a remedy for the numerous corollary collaterals that he admits has crept into the school system. The idea that money will place men beyond temptation don't hold good on my stand point. The rule is, "The more we have, the more we want"—and if we are not restrained from principle we will not be by money, and must be by law. Hence the necessity of Legislative action to enforce the laws already in existence and make others that will eventually drive all those minor hindrances to the prosperity of our schools out of the way. When it is borne in mind that we have fallen upon times when our organizations, whether governmental, political or civil, are considered from a moneyed point of view, it is not strange that the same spirit has permeated the common school system. The absorbing and all important question is, not what course will yield the greater percent. of profit, but how can I make money out of it. It, therefore, behooves the people, the laboring class of the community for whose special benefit the free school system was organized, to see to it that they are represented by men of stern integrity in whom they may confidently place the watchful care and guardianship of this the greatest of all boons, education.

I will now mention an abuse of the common school system that has not been alluded to. It is the practice of using a part of the common school fund for what is termed high school purposes, intended to confer a higher degree of scholarship upon the student than was contemplated in the organization of the common school system. The two schools are usually blended, making them necessarily more expensive, thereby detracting the benefits from the very class for which they were intended, the poor, and conferring them upon a class that are at least able, if not willing, to educate themselves, perverting the common school fund from the very object and intent of its creation. It was intended to bestow a good business education upon those whose parents are not able to do so; beyond this it should not go. Just what it takes to constitute a good business education is somewhat difficult to decide. It is usually termed a good English education, but just where the line of demarcation should be drawn, I will not undertake to define. The modern practice of establishing and sustaining high schools by taxation is wrong in principle and therefore wrong in theory and practice. It enables a few ostentatious, self-interested parties to arrogate to themselves the high prerogative, under the semblance of legality of course, of imposing heavy taxes upon an unwilling people, who, in very many instances, get nothing in return. It is done by the vote of the people, it is true, sometimes by a bare majority obtained at the expense of a decent and fair election; it is nevertheless a departure from that high minded, honorable and liberal principle that seems to take something for nothing, or in other words to force from your neighbor what rightfully belongs to him; appropriate it to your own use and give him nothing in return. Necessary taxation, which he bears alike upon all, and the benefits accrue to all, is just and proper and in perfect accord with our republican institutions. Taxation that bears alike upon all, benefits only a part, and expends the other part without remuneration, is, to say the least of it, arbitrary and unjust, and should be discarded by all liberal and right minded men.

Now I will hand over these crude ideas to the tender mercy of Vindeux, who has given the subject much more thought than I. Let him sift and separate them; gather the good into the garner and cast the bad to the wind. I only stepped in to contribute my mite to draw out an investigation, hoping it might lead to the discovery and correction of the numerous abuses that have crept in and hung like an incubus around the neck of our school system. Meantime let us not fail to demand of the next Legislature an act authorizing the use of text books in our schools thereby ridding us of those vampires known as book publishers with their army of agents.

The Woes of a Circus.

Miles Orton's circus, which was advertised to appear in Greenville Wednesday, did not come. The circus has been wintering in Hartford and opened the season there last Saturday with the first performance. From there it went to Cromwell, thence to Rochester, and the next objective point was Greenville. But on account of the terrible condition of the roads they got behind. Between Cromwell and Rochester, a distance of fourteen miles, a dozen accidents befell them, and though they left the former place at 2 a. m. Tuesday, the entire caravan did not arrive in Rochester until 10:30 a. m. Wednesday. A short distance from Cromwell, in descending a steep hill, the pole wagon was overturned, the driver, a negro, was thrown under the debris and probably seriously injured; one mule's back was broken and another's hind legs were both broken, and to put them out of misery they were killed. Another horse died of exhaustion. The lion den, which empty would weigh 3,500 pounds, was overturned, and it took four hours to right it up. The chariot, in which the ladies rode, was overturned in a creek, and the fair ones ducked. Another vehicle shared a similar fate. A sufficient portion of the circus arrived in Rochester at 7 p. m. Tuesday to give a performance, which was well attended, after leaving Rochester for Greenville they had traveled not over five miles before they found it would be impossible to get there, and turned back and shipped on the Green river packet to South-Carrollton, where they showed yesterday. Two representatives of the circus arrived in Greenville about midnight Wednesday, after traveling all day, and settled the contracts for this place. About 1,300 people came to Greenville to see the circus, and left late in the evening, much disappointed at its non-arrival. A large number went to South-Carrollton from this vicinity.—Echo.
